

General information:

The journal “Investigación en Discapacidad” (Disability Research) invites the interested scientific community that is involved in areas related with the study of the pathological bases, prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of disability to send works for their publication. This is a journal published three times a year that has as its objective the publication of innovative and relevant articles from the viewpoint of basic, clinical, technological, and sociomedical research.

The Editorial Committee is composed of prestigious national and international investigators with broad experience in the scientific community, as well as having an extensive portfolio of reviewers. Thus, each manuscript is submitted to the peer review process.

“Investigación en Discapacidad” is an organ of scientific diffusion coordinated from the Luis Guillermo Ibarra Ibarra-National Rehabilitation Institute in Mexico City that is considered a referral center for disabling diseases in Mexico and Latin America.
